THE SPINNERS.

[Extra.]

No tears are in their eyes of gloom,
They grind their teeth before the loom.
"Oh, Germany, thy shroud we spin,
And weave a threefold curse therein.
We're weaving, we're weaving.

"Cursed be the idol to whom we call,
In winter's cold and hunger's pain,
We have hoped and waited in vain, in vain,
He has duped and cheated and fooled us all.
We're weaving, we're weaving.

"Cursed be the king, the rich man's king,
Untouched by the sight of our suffering,
Who squeezed the farthings from every one,
And shot us like dogs when the last was gone.
We're weaving, we're weaving.

"Cursed be the treacherous fatherland,
Where shame and disgrace go hand in hand,
Where the bud is blighted before its time,
But the moldy worm may reach its prime.
We're weaving, we're weaving.

"The shuttle whirs, the wheel's in flight,
Busily spin we, day and night,
Oh, Germany, thy shroud we spin,
And weave a threefold curse therein.
We're weaving, we're weaving."

MY STOWAWAY.

From the Detroit Free Press.

One night towards eleven o'clock I stood at the stern of that fine Atlantic steamship, the City of Venice, which was plowing its way through the darkness to America. I leaned on the rounded bulwark and enjoyed a smoke as I gazed on the luminous trail the wheel was making in the quiet sea. Some one touched me on the shoulder, saying. 'Beg pardon, sir,' and on straightening up I saw in the dim light a man whom at first I took to be one of the steerage passengers. I thought he wanted to get past me, for the room was somewhat restricted in the passage between the aft wheel house and the stern, and I moved aside. The man looked hurriedly to one side and then the other and approaching, said in a whisper, 'I'm starving, sir!'

'Why don't you go and get something to eat then. Don't they give you plenty forward?'

'I suppose they do, sir, but I'm a stowaway. I got on at Liverpool. What little I took with me is gone, and for two days I've had nothing.'

'Come with me. I'll take you to the steward, and he'll fix you all right.'

'O, no, no, no,' he cried, trembling with excitement. 'If you speak to any of the officers or crew I'm lost. I assure you, sir, I'm an honest man, I am indeed, sir. It's the old story—nothing but starvation at home, so my only chance seemed to be to get this way to America. If I'm caught I shall get dreadful usage and will be taken back and put in jail.'

'O, you're mistaken. The officers are all courteous gentlemen.'

'Yes, to you cabin passengers they are. But to a stowaway—that's a different matter. If you can't help me, sir, please don't inform on me.'

'How can I help you but by speaking to the captain or purser?'

'Get me a morsel to eat.'

'Where were you hid?'

'Right here, sir, in this place,' and he put his hand on the square deck edifice beside us. This seemed to be a sort of a spare wheel-house, to be used if anything went wrong with the one in front. It had a couple of doors on each side and there were windows all round it. At present it was piled full of those cane folding steamer chairs and other odds and ends.

'I crawl in between the chairs and the wall and get under that piece of tarpaulin by the end here.'

'Well, your sure of being caught, for the first fine day all those chairs will be taken out and the deck steward can't miss you.'

The man sighed as I said this and said, the chances were much against him. Then, starting up, he cried: 'Poverty is the great crime. If I had stolen some one else's money I would have been able to take cabin passage instead of—'

'If you weren't caught.'

'Well, if I were caught what then? I would be well fed and taken care of.'

'O, they'd take care of you.'

'The waste food in this great ship would feed a hundred hungry wretches like me. Does my presence keep the steamer back a moment of time? No. Well, who is harmed by my trying to better myself in a new world? No one. I am begging for a crust from the lavish plenty all because I am struggling to be honest. It is only when I become a thief that I am out of danger of starvation—caught or free.'

'There, there, now, don't speak so loud or you'll have some one here. You hang round and I will bring you some provender. What would you like to have? Poached eggs on toast, some turkey or—'

The wretch sank down at my feet as I said this, and recognizing the cruelty of it I hurried down into the saloon and hunted up a steward who had not turned in:

'Yes, sir, certainly sir; beef; or 'am, sir?'

'Both, and a cup of coffee, please.'

'Well, sir, I'm afraid there's no coffee, sir, but I could make you a pot of tea in a moment, sir.'

'All right and bring them to my room, please?'

'Yesser.'

In a very short time there was that faint steward rap at the state room door and a most appetizing tray load was placed at my service.

When the waiter was safely gone I hurried up the companion way with much the air of a man who is stealing fowls, and I found my stowaway just in the position I had left him.

'Now pitch in,' I said. 'I'll stand guard forward here, and if you hear me cough strike for cover. I'll explain the tray matter if it's found.'

He simply said: 'Thank you, sir,' and I went forward. When I came back the tray had been swept clean and the teapot emptied. My stowaway was making for his den when I said, 'How about to-morrow?'

He answered, 'This will do me for a couple of days.'

'Nonsense. I'll have a square meal for you here in the corner of this wheel-house, so that you can get it without trouble. I'll leave it about this time to-morrow night.'

'You won't tell any one, any one at all, sir.'

'No. At least I'll think over the matter, and if I see a way out I'll let you know.'

'God bless you, sir.'

I turned the incident over in my mind a good deal that night, and I almost made a resolution to take Cupples into my confidence. Rodger Cupples, a lawyer of San Francisco, sat next me at the table, and with the freedom of wild westerners we were already well acquainted, although only a few days out. Then I thought of putting a suppositious case to the captain—he was a thorough gentleman—and if he spoke generously of the suppositious case I would spring the real one on him. The stowaway had impressed me by his language as being a man worth doing something for.

Next day I was glad to see that it was rainy. There would be no demand for ship chairs that day. I felt that real sunshiny weather would certainly unearth, or unchair, my stowaway. I met Cupples on deck and we walked a few rounds together.

At last Cupples, who had been telling me some stories of court trials in San Francisco, said, 'Let's sit down and wrap up. This deck's too wet to walk on.'

'All the seats are damp,' I said.

'I'll get out my steamer chair, Steward,' he cried to the deck steward who was shoving a mop back and forth, 'get me my chair. There's a tag on it, Berth 36.'

'No, no,' I cried, hastily; 'let's go into the cabin. It's raining.'

'Only a drizzle. You won't hurt at sea, you know.'

By this time the deck steward was hauling down chairs trying to find No. 96, which, I felt sure, would likely be near the bottom. I could not control my anxiety as the steward got nearer and nearer the tarpaulin. At last I cried:

'Steward, never mind the chair; take the first two that come handy.'

Cupples looked astonished and, as we sat down I said:

'I have something to tell you, and I trust to your honor to say nothing about it to any one else. There's a man under those chairs.'

The look that came into the lawyer's face showed that he thought me demented, but when I told him the whole story the judicial expression came on and he said, shaking his head:

'Sharp, that's bad business.'

'I know it.'

'Yes, but it's worse than you have any idea of. I presume that you don't know what section 4738 of the Revised Statutes says?'

'No, I don't.'

'Well, it is to the effect that any person or persons, wilfully or with malice aforethought or otherwise, who shall aid, abet, succor or cherish, either directly or indirectly or by implication, any person who feloniously or secretly conceals himself on any vessel, barge, brig, schooner, bark, clipper, steamship or other craft touching at or coming within the jurisdiction of these United States, the said person's purpose being the defrauding of the revenue of, or the escaping of any or all of the just legal dues exacted by such vessel, barge, etc., the person so aiding or abetting shall, in the eye of the law, be considered as accomplice before, during and after the illegal act, and shall in such case be subject to the penalties accuring thereunto, to wit: a fine of not more than $5,000, or imprisonment of not more than two years, or both at the option of the judge before whom the party so accused is convicted.'

'Great Heavens! is that really so?'

Well, it isn't word for word, but that is the purport. Of course, if I had my books here I—why, you've doubtless heard of the case of the Pacific Steamship Company vs. Cumberland. Well, I was retained on behalf of the company. Now all Cumberland did was to allow the man—he was sent up for two years—to carry his valise on board, but we proved the intent. Like a fool he boasted of it, but the steamer brought back the man and Cumberland got off with $4,000 and cost. Never got out of that scrape less than $10,000. Then again, the steamship Peruvian vs. McNish; that is even more to the——'

'See here, Cupples. Come with me to-night and see the man. If you heard him talk you would see the inhumanity——'

'Tush, I'm not fool enough to mix up in such a matter, and look here, you'll have to work it pretty slick if you get yourself out. The man will be caught as sure as fate; then knowingly or through fright he'll incriminate you.'

'What would you do if you were in my place?'

'My dear sir, don't put it that way. It's a reflection on both my judgment and my legal knowledge. I couldn't be in such a scrape. But as a lawyer—minus the fee—I'll tell you what you should do. I would give the man up before witnesses—before witnesses. I'll be one of them myself. Get as many of the cabin passengers as you like out here, to-day, and let the officers search. If he charges you with what the law terms support, deny it, and call attention to the fact that you have your information. By the way, I would give written information and keep a copy.

'I gave the man my word not to inform on him and so I can't do it to-day, but I'll tell him of it to-night.'

'And have him commit suicide or give himself up first and incriminate you? Nonsense. Just release yourself from your promise. That's all. He'll trust you.'

'Yes, poor wretch, I'm afraid he will.

About ten o'clock that night I resolved to make another appeal to Rodger Cupples to at least stand off and hear the man talk. Cupples' stateroom, No. 96, was in the forward part of the short steamer down a long passage and off a short side passage. Mine was aft the cabin. The door of 96 was partly open, and inside an astonishing sight met my gaze.

There stood my stowaway.

He was evidently admiring himself in the glass, and with a brush was touching up his face with dark paint here and there. When he put on the woe-begone look he was the stowaway; when he painted up and chuckled to himself he was Rodger Cupples, Esq.

The moment the thing dawned upon me I quietly withdrew and went up the forward companion way. Soon Cupples came cautiously up and seeing the way clear scudded along in the darkness and hid in the aft wheelhouse. I saw the whole thing now. It was a scheme to get me to make a fool of myself some fine day before the rest of the passengers and have a standing joke on me. I walked forward. The first officer was on duty.

'I have reason to believe,' I said, 'that there is a stowaway in the aft wheel-house.' Quicker than it takes me to tell it a detachment of sailors were sent aft under the guidance of the third mate. I went through the cabin and said to the gentlemen who were playing cards and reading:

'There's a row up stairs of some kind.'

We were all on deck before the crew had surrounded the wheelhouse. There was a rattle of steamer folded chairs, a pounce by the third mate and out came the unfortunate Cupples, dragged by the collar.

'Hold on; let go—this is a mistake.'

'It's a mistake to both hold on and let go,' said Stalker, of Indiana.

'Come out o' this,' cried the mate, jerkin him forward.

With a wrench the stowaway tore himself free and made a dash for the companion way. A couple of sailors instantly tripped him up.

'Let go of me. I'm a cabin passenger,' cried Cupples.

'Bless me,' I cried in astonishment. 'This isn't you, Cupples? Why, I acted on your own advice and that of revised Statutes No. whatever-they-were.'

'Well, act on my advice again,' cried the infuriated Cupples, 'and go to the—hold.'

However, he was in a better humor the next day and stood treat all round. We found subsequently that Cupples was a New York actor, and at the entertainment given for the benefit of the sailors' orphans a few nights after he recited a piece in costume that just melted the ladies. It was voted a wonderfully touching performance, and he called it 'The Stowaway.'

Cause of the Egyptian War.

The origin of the present Egyptian campaign dates from the reign of Ismail Pasha, a shrewd and unscrupulous intriguer, who succeeded Said Pasha in 1863, and accumulated a fortune from the exportation of cotton during our civil war. This money he lavished on Turkish officials till he soon found himself a favorite with the Sultan and endowed with almost regal power. He had been educated in Paris, and his ambition was to Europeanize Egypt and make Cairo the Paris of the East. To accomplish this purpose he borrowed money by the million at the most exorbitant rates of interest. This money was not devoted to national purposes, but was devoted to Oriental display, in bribing favorite friends of the Sultan in Constantinople, in covering Egypt with palaces, and stocking harems. The fellahs, or native population, were robbed to pay the interest on these debts from which they derived no benefit, and which they had no share in contracting, and when the money could not be raised the Khedive's tax-gatherers used to surround the villages, catch the inhabitants and ply the bastinado till the taxes were paid.

At last things came to such a pass that Ismail could borrow no more money, and the fellahs could pay no more taxes. In the interest of the bondholders, mostly English and French, Ismail was deposed and his son, the present ruler, made Khedive. To secure payment on the bonds a joint or dual control was established over Egyptian finances by England and France, Sir Rivers Wilson, the English representative, dismissed from public employment all the native Egyptian officials and flooded the country with a swarm of hungry English officials, who knew nothing about Egypt save that it owed them exorbitant salaries. A spirit of disaffection soon manifested itself, and a national party was formed, headed by Arabi Pasha, an officer of the army. A brawl occurred in the streets of Alexandria, which was magnified by the English press into a wholesale massacre, and measures were taken by the English government to suppress the Egyptian national party, now in incipient rebellion against the Khedive, who was only a puppet in the hands of his English and French masters. France to co-operate with England in suppressing the rebellion, and the latter resolved to act alone. Admiral Seymour bombarded Alexandria, and Wolseley, passing through the Suez canal, met the Egyptian army at Tel-el-Keber, defeated it and captured Arabi Pasha, who was banished to Ceylon.

Meantime the Arabs of the Soudan an immense tract of country comprising Kordofan, Nubia proper, Sennar and Toka on the East, and some Nile districts further south,—under the leadership of El Mahdi, the False Prophet, had risen in rebellion against English rule, and held the Egyptian garrison prisoners. The Soudan region had been gradually annexed since 1821, but was never reduced to complete subjection. It was the centre of the great African slave trade, which had always been monopolized by the Arabs, and which was partially broken up by Sir Samuel Baker and Gen. Gordon, in the service of the Khedive, some years before. England having undertaken to restore order in Egypt now found herself compelled to liberate the Egyptian garrisons and suppress the Mahdi's rebellion. The Arabs, on the other hand, were instigated to resistance under the impulses of patriotism, religious fanaticism and the profits of slave catching.

To Wait for an Answer.

A young lady living in Dallas, Texas, dismissed the young man to whom she was engaged because he drank. A few days after she had told him she would never speak to him again a little negro boy brought a note from the wretched young man, whom we shall call George. The note read: "Faithless, yet still beloved, Fanny. My sufferings are more than I can bear. I cannot live without your love. I have, therefore, just taken poison, the effects of which I am already beginning to feel. When you read these lines I will already have joined the great silent majority. I will be a corpse. See that I am decently buried and shed a silent tear over my tomb in remembrance of the happy days gone by. Your Dear George." When the young lady had finished reading the note she asked the little negro who brought it what he was waiting for. "De gemman tole me ter wait for an answer."

Take both time and yourself by the forelock while there is a forelock left. Apply Parker's Hair Balsam to your hair before matters get worse. It will arrest the falling off of your hair and restore its original color, gloss and softness. It is a perfect dressing withal, clean, richly perfumed, cools and heals the scalp.

BULWER LYTTON'S BRIDE.

Where it Touches the Shore and the Great Columns in Midstream.

"What a beautiful bride between old age and childhood is religion. How instinctively the child begins with prayer and worship on entering life, and how instinctively, on quitting life, the old man turns back to prayer and worship, putting himself again side by side with the infant," remarks Sir E. Bulwer Lytton, in his "strange story."

Yes, but between its distant abutments the bride of life has many high and lowly arches, through which the wild waters dash and roar in wrath and desolation. Prayer and worship alone do not sustain these. Nature's solid rocks must lie unshaken beneath, and human art and skill must rear and solidify the structure overhead. God's will is best accomplished in the laws He has made for the creatures whom He has placed under their control. Neither the child's trustful "Our Father," nor the old man's "Forget me not in the midst of mine infirmities," will alter this by the weight of a single grain.

Science and art [illegible]—these and prayer—is the order of Heaven itself. Divinity heals through its agents, and these agents are the discoverers of man; not the vague [illegible] of prophets or seers. Is life a burden to you? Does time drag? Is your power to cope with life's problems and duties weakened? You are not well. Your blood is sluggish and infected, perhaps, or some important organ is torpid or overworked. This fact may have taken the form of dyspepsia, rheumatism, gout, malaria, pains in the stomach, [illegible] of a dozen other ills. PARKER'S TONIC will [illegible] invigorate those who have been shut up in [illegible] solid cells. It is powerful, pure, stimulating, [illegible]—the keystone of the central arch of the bridge of life.

When Mr Hayes handed the government of Louisiana over to the democrats, he put it in their power to end a government of the people there, and the murder of Murphy by a Judge and his posse of city officers, and the failure to convict is the natural result. It is a significant fact that a negro was the only man on the jury to stand up for a conviction, the eleven white jurors justifying the charge made by the papers that no matter what the evidence might be, an honest trial could not be had. While the state remains where Hayes put it, in the hands of the lottery gamblers and bandits of the population, industrial exhibitions are not going to be either useful or beneficial. We should think, as Hayes reviews his work it would spoil his stomach even for chicken farming.—Harrisburg Telegraph.

A dispatch from Washington of Monday last says: "The bill to place General Grant on the retired list of the army was defeated in the House this afternoon after one of the hottest debates of the session. On the motion to suspend the rules the vote stood 158 yeas to 103 nays, not two-thirds favoring the bill. The bill was first passed by the senate, in which General Grant was mentioned by name." The rebel brigadiers and their northern allies will never forgive the General for the part he took in their humiliation at Appomattox.

Two prominent democrats are reported to be amazed and dismayed at Mr Cleveland's painful ignorance regarding the party leaders in various states. We are not at all surprised. The president elect's lack of knowledge on many subjects has been visible to the average eye for some time, and in the near future the astonishment of democratic statesmen at their chief's small-bore notions and school boy statesmanship will doubtless have ample opportunity to expand to the utmost.—New York Tribune.

The St. Louis Globe-Democrat says, that Mr Cleveland is credited with the remark that there should be no "resurrections" in the search for cabinet material. He might have chosen "a more tender word," as Mr Weller observes, to express his meaning, but he could not well have hit upon one better calculated to remind a certain class of democratic politicians that the mere fact of their being above ground does not signify that they are still alive and fit for duty.

Last March the McCalmont Oil Company of this county, decided to amend its charter increasing the capital stock from $500,000 to $2,000,000 and giving the directors power to sell its real estate without first obtaining the consent of the stockholders. Notice of the amendments was filed in the state department and on Friday last Governor Pattison refused to approve the increase of capital stock, but approved the amendment relating to the directors.

Governor Pattison punishes the naughty state senate by withholding appointments to the official service of the commonwealth. In other words, one of the co-ordinate branches of the government sets itself to obstruct the operations of the others. This, we believe, is what the governor calls statesmanship, but the dictionary has another name for it.—Phila. Press.

A charter was issued at the state department, at Harrisburg, on Saturday last, to the Warren and Sugar Grove Railroad, which will run a line from Warren to a point on the state line between New York and Pennsylvania. The length will be fifteen miles and the capital stock $80,000. George P. Orr, of Warren, is president.

There is now said to be "talk of General McMahon for postmaster general." We hope not. What would become of the last mail, and what assurance would one have that he would remove his letters in a month? "Masterly inactivity" would not do in the postoffice department.—Albany Journal (rep.)

The appointment of Mr. William A. Wallace to a cabinet position by President-elect Cleveland, would prove eminently satisfactory to the citizens of Pennsylvania of every shade of politics, excepting a very delicate tint represented by the railroad magnate, Bill Scott, of Erie.

At the democratic banquet in Pittsburg, a few evenings since, an enthusiastic Cleveland man looked at the telegraphic message from Mr. Tilden, and said with a hiccup, "Any —— fool could tell the old man wasn't paralyzed and all broke up. Look at that handwriting."

Senator Dawes thinks the correct form for all bills should now read: "Be it enacted by the senate and Samuel J. Randall of the house of representatives of the United States of America in congress assembled."

The secret of Cleveland's going to the Victoria Hotel is out. He used to play leap-frog with Billy Wise, who keeps that tavern. May be Billy will be wise enough to get something fat.—Macon Telegraph (Dem.)

The Ohio people are feeling happy over the prospect of getting rid of their democratic legislature for the ten days it will take the members to attend Cleveland's inauguration and sober up.

THE PAY OF THE JUDGES.

There has been very much senseless gabble in the papers of the state about the pay some of the Common Pleas Judges have received for holding courts outside their districts. Under the laws a case cannot be tried before a judge who is any way interested in it, either pecuniarily or as having at some time been connected with the case professionally. The propriety of this provision will be readily appreciated by any intelligent citizen. In order that suitors shall not suffer inconvenience and delay in the trial of such cases the judge is authorized to call upon a neighboring judge to hold a week of court now and then for the disposition of these cases. It is almost uniformly the case that judges are selected from the ranks of the ablest and most experienced men in the profession. They are attorneys of large practice, and it will be years after they have taken their seats on the bench before the cases in which they are interested will be disposed of. For instance, take the case of Judge Olmsted in this district. He was interested in most of the important cases in the two counties of his district, when called to the bench. There is no man clothed with the judicial ermine in Pennsylvania who more industriously, faithfully or conscientiously discharges the duties of the position than he, and yet there are many cases in the courts of McKean and Potter counties which cannot be tried by him. It becomes necessary, therefore, for him to have occasionally a list of these cases certified to Judge Brown of Warren, Judge Williams of Tioga, or Judge Taylor of Venango, for trial.

Up to this time these judges have very properly been paid for this extra labor by the state, but it is now proposed by some wonderfully astute newspaper reporters, that Judge Olmsted should pay the expenses attending the holding of his courts by outside judges, out of his own pocket. The bills which have been paid Judges Rucher of Northumberland, Mayer of Clinton, Brown of Warren, Bredin of Butler and others, have been paraded through the papers, as raids upon the treasury, and as though the money had been improperly obtained. The judges of the state, outside of Philadelphia, Allegheny and Dauphin counties, are paid $4000 a year, which is a niggardly salary, considering the ability of the men filling these positions, and the character and importance of the same. It is $3000 a year less than the attorney general or secretary of the commonwealth receives. It is less than many of the leading salesmen or bookkeepers of prominent mercantile houses are paid. The income from their practice, of many of the judges of the state, before they became judges, was double what they now receive in salaries. One of the gentlemen who has been published as a public plunderer, received as a retainer in one case more than his entire salary for a year. If they are made to pay the expenses of other judges for holding such courts as they cannot hold, there will be several judges to elect in this state very soon after that fact is established.

ABOUT APPORTIONMENTS.

It is pretty well settled that if an apportionment bill is passed at this session of the legislature, McKean will be connected with Cameron, Potter Warren and Venango counties. This is the district as proposed in the senate bill. The house bill adds the county of Forest to the district, and we hope this will be the bill which will be finally adopted. There is an effort made in the senate bill to connect Clarion county to the Elk-Clearfield district. This can only be done by making Forest the connecting link, thereby burying a small but as devoted a band of republicans as can be found in any county in the commonwealth of Pennsylvania. Forest county has never yet faltered in her republicanism —she never fails to send a republican to the legislature, and it is inflicting a great wrong upon the republicans of that county to bury them under the avalanche of democratic votes which are annually piled up in the counties of Clarion, Clearfield, Centre, Clinton and Elk. The republicans of Forest may as well be told, "Go your way, we have no further use for you." The original McCracken bill placed Forest county in this district, and it is where she naturally belongs. Her interests are identical with those of McKean, Warren and Venango, and the sentiment is universal that she should become an integral part of our district. Then again why should not the McCracken bill be adopted by the legislature? It was eminently fair, and the people of the state have, in two elections, endorsed that bill by overwhelming majorities. It gives the republicans eighteen members of congress and the democrats ten. Is it right for the republicans to ask more than that? Are they not making a mistake in attempting to grab another district? We think so.

NEVER HEARD OF HIM.

The Wilmington Star, a leading paper of Delaware, relates the following good thing on the incoming president or on an ex-governor of North Carolina. The friends of the ex-governor will hardly appreciate a joke of this character. It says:

"There is a North Carolina democrat in the city who has just returned from a visit to Mr Cleveland. He was an elector, and was pleasantly received by the president-elect. He is quoted as saying that Mr Cleveland asked him:

" 'Who is this Mr Jarvis, of your state?'

" 'Why,' replied the North Carolinian, 'don't you know our ex governor?'

" 'Never heard of him in my life until his name was presented here for a cabinet position,' " replied the president-elect.

This candid talk of the North Carolinian reached the ears of some of the members of congress of that state, men of experience in the affairs of life, and it seems they hunted him up and cautioned him not to tell tales out of school. He was particularly warned to 'keep out of the clutches of those newspaper men.' "

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER.

[From our Regular Correspondent.]

Congress is now doing nothing or nearly nothing. Both houses meet daily, have prayer, go through with routine business, and talk, but say nothing. There are plenty of debates, replies to insinuations, and objections but no important action. The only question that can be carried without a dissenting voice is that of adjournment.

Although Congressmen are notoriously derelict in the matter of being present at the opening prayer until last Wednesday morning I do not remember ever to have heard the chaplain invoke the divine blessing upon the deliberations of the body when only one senator was his audience besides the president of the senate. Fortunately the chaplain's salary is safely arranged whether or not there is respectful attendance at his prayers. The senator referred to was Mr Jonas of Louisiana, who is a Hebrew. The backward state of the appropriation bills, and the impending deadlocks over some of them make it probable that the forty-ninth congress will be called together in the early spring. Last week it was a matter that Congressmen considered improbable, but they have since realized that an extra session may become a necessity. Each side charges the other with pursuing an obstructive course in order to bring about the result. The republicans have nothing to gain by it, and Mr Reed, of Maine, one of the most prominent republican leaders in the house says he has heard only one republican member express a desire to remain at the capital during the summer. When the question was referred to in the senate, it evoked an energetic protest from Senator Ingalls, who it is understood voiced the views of the republicans in that body. In the house Mr Rayner charged the democrats with an effort to force an extra session so as to have an excuse for remaining in Washington where they can make direct personal appeals to the new president.

Cabinet speculations have not been so rife for the past day or two, though the subject has not lost interest. Mr Cleveland is now understood to be making his selections from 15 names, among which are those that have been repeatedly mentioned for the cabinet. The democrats express the hope that he will decide upon his cabinet and announce it very soon. The chosen ones can then make necessary preparations, and the rejected ones will have time to recover from their disappointment before Mr Cleveland arrives here. There will be some keen disappointments. The large number of aspirants for cabinet honors makes that unavoidable.

President Arthur will hold one more public reception before the close of his term, and it will occur late this week or during the early part of next when so many visitors will be in the city to attend the ceremonies of the Washington monument dedication.

In making provision for the accommodation of the thousands who are coming to the inauguration, due arrangements have been made for the hundreds of pick pockets and thieves who are expected. Several days since I dropped into a detective's office where I found them engaged with about a bushel of photographs. These pictures represented the crooks of various cities, and had been sent by the police of those cities. There were several copies of each picture, and a rogue's gallery was being prepared for each precinct so that the officers could study the faces and arrest the originals if they met them on the streets. They were photographs of pick pockets principally but the house-breakers, the confidence man, the bunco man, the monte man, and every other species of criminal were there.

Difficulties and delays are connected with the preparation of the ball room for the Cleveland inauguration festivities, which forcibly recall similar difficulties associated with the second inaugural ball of Gen. Grant. An immense frame building was projected for that occasion in judiciary square, a short distance only from the new pension building in which the coming ball will be held. As the fourth of March drew near and delays in the completion of the building arose, the anxiety of the managers became intense. Extra forces of men were employed day, night and Sunday. Finally when the building was finished, the heating arrangements were found inadequate, and gas jets were resorted to which were kept burning day and night. The cold was severe on that eventful evening, and in spite of all that could be done, there was intense suffering at the ball. Gentlemen danced in their overcoats, and ladies in seal skin jackets and furs. A number of persons lost their lives in consequence of cold contracted there. Fortunately, the Cleveland ball room can be made warm whatever kind of winds the ides of March may bring.

HORRIBLE!

A dispatch from Springfield, West Virginia, relates the following terrible account of the burial of a young lady who it was afterwards ascertained was not dead. Is it strange that cremation is becoming popular with so many people?

"Mary Cox, a well known and popular young lady who lived near the mouth of the Little Cape River, was taken violently ill. The physician decided that she was suffering from neuralgia of the stomach, and prescribed morphia. A dose was administered at once, and another left with instructions to give it in 24 hours. For some reason the second dose was given in a very short time. An hour or two afterward the death of Miss Cox was announced, and two days later the body was buried. At the funeral one lady insisted that Miss Cox was not dead and begged that a physician be sent for. That night the dogs of a man living near the graveyard stationed themselves near the tomb and kept up a persistent howling. The next day the grave was opened, and, to the horror of all, it was found that the girl had been buried alive. The lining was torn from the sides of the casket, and the pillow was in shreds. The poor girl had literally stripped the clothes from her body. Her hands and arms were torn and bleeding, the lips were bitten through, and handfuls of hair were torn from her head. The girl had come to life, and had evidently made a fearful struggle to escape. The terrible affair fills the community with horror."

The democrats of the country will turn out enmasse to witness the inauguration. They have waited some time.

MISCELLANEOUS.

She Had Confidence.

Mrs. H. C. Harshberger, Manor Hill, Huntingdon County, Pa., writes: "Dr. S. B. Hartman & Co., Columbus, O.: I have been afflicted for three years, caused by over-work too soon after confinement. My kidneys became seriously affected; could not retain my urine day nor night. It was high colored, thick and bloody. My monthlies had left altogether for fourteen months, during which time I was confined to my bed with a beating in right ovaries. The discharge from the womb was so offensive no one could stay in the room. The urine continued bloody, with pain in voiding it, and when in bed would pass from me in my sleep. I have had three doctors attending me regularly, one for four months, one of the others one whole summer, and the third all winter. We had two others in consultation with them, and used twenty bottles of different kinds of patent medicines, all to no good. I then got a bottle of Peruna, and before I had three-fourths of the bottle taken I quit wetting the bed and could retain the urine sufficient to attend church, which I had not done for three years, and my monthlies came back as natural as ever; indeed, I considered myself a well woman again. Since that time I have had pneumonia. My confidence in Peruna was so great that I did not send for a doctor. I followed the directions in your "Ills of Life" and am over it, as well as can be expected of one so delicate as I have been. Others in my neighborhood had the same disease, and among them were strong men, and had the best physicians, and yet died, while I sailed through in safety on Peruna and Manalin. I sincerely believe, and would say to all the afflicted in the wide world, that Peruna and Manalin are the only two medicines that any one needs in any disease, if used as directed in your book entitled "The Ills of Life."

J. B. Fleming, publisher of the New Dominion, Morgantown, W Va., writes: "Some months since, I received some of your medicine in exchange for advertising. My wife has taken five bottles of it, and has derived great benefit from it."

Mr M C Pershing, Brodersville, Pa., writes: "My wife has been using Peruna for some time for weak lungs and liver and kidney complaint, and thinks it is doing her great good. Has used only one bottle as yet. Please send your book on the 'Ills of Life,' as we can't get any from our druggist."

Mr John Denny, Mt. Vernon, O., writes: "We have a large sale in Peruna. It gives satisfaction."

—We are indebted to State Treasurer Livsey for a handsomely bound volume of his report on the finances of the state, for the fiscal year ending with November last. Mr. Livsey tells the legislature some plain facts about the probable receipts of the treasury for two years to come, and in making appropriations it would be advisable for that august body to give heed to these facts.

—A number of our exchanges state that "T. H. Dean, of Smethport, is now the owner of the trotter Allegany Boy, having purchased him of F. H. Rowley of Port Allegany." Allegany Boy is a roan stallion formerly (if not at present) owned by A. J. Coldren, of Derrick City. Allegany is the name of the horse sold to Mr. Dean who has since sold it to Bradford parties. Allegany Boy is the son of Wood's Hambletonian, while Allegany was sired by Rochester.—Port Allegany Reporter.

The Hose Ball.

The fourth annual reception of the hose company came off as advertised, on Wednesday evening last and was one of the finest ever held under the auspices of this company. Everything that could be done was done to make it a pleasant affair and the boys succeeded in doing so. The hall was handsomely decorated with flags and bunting and the company's new uniforms were voted by all to be tasty and elegant. Just as the merry dancers got nicely started there was a break in the music and Capt. A. W. Coburn, of the Bradford Fire Police, stepped forward and in a neat speech presented the company with a beautiful silver pitcher and goblets handsomely engraved, as an acknowledgment of courtesies extended by our firemen to the Fire Police last winter. It was a handsome present and a complete surprise to our company. Sheridan Gorton tried to respond for the boys, but he could not keep his eyes off the pitcher long enough to say much, he was so very proud. The Citizen's Hose, No. 3, of Dubois, had been invited but owing to the blockade of the Narrow Gauge railroad only a few had the hardihood to drive to Eldred in search of a railroad that was open. Our hose boys never make a failure of anything they undertake, and this party was a success with a great big "S."

Took a Sneak.

At about 7 a. m. on Monday as Sheriff Bannon opened the jail door to see how his charge had passed the night he counted noses and could only make seventeen out of twenty three that he had to account for to the court. On examination it was found that a stone weighing about 300 pounds had been taken out of the outside wall in one of the cells on the third tier, and that six of the prisoners had made a dash for freedom. The way they effected their escape is as follows. The walls of the jail are built of stones twelve to sixteen inches thick, two feet wide and from two to four feet long, set in mortar. At the end of each stone is an iron pin or dowel, half an inch thick and one and a half inches wide, which is sunk into the stones to prevent them being pried out. It took six months of labor at odd times for the prisoners to loosen this stone. They removed the mortar around the dowels and by the means of case-knives, which they had "nicked" they succeeded in sawing them off. The dowels being severed, the mortar removed, they pried the stone into the cell with a bar of iron taken from the stair railing, and with the aid of the jail hose which is used in washing out the prison, made their descent very neatly. The sheriff immediately telegraphed to all surrounding towns and sent scouts in different directions. About 5 o'clock news was received from Bradford that all had been captured near Sawyer City and on Wednesday they were once more snugly ensconced in their respective cells. The sheriff extends his hearty thanks to those who aided him in their capture.

Bishop's Transom-Lifter.

Messrs C. J. Smith & Co., of Boston, Mass., are the general agents of the country for the sale of the transom lifter invented by our townsman, S. A. Bishop, Esq. The invention is one of that class of devices used for opening and closing transoms, skylights and other windows, which are out of reach, and by architects and builders is considered one of the best and most convenient ever given to the public. The invention is designed to overcome the disadvantages under which the present hangings labor. This hanging is designed to exert its greatest force on the sash when closed, thereby overcoming any binding of the sash.

It is with more than ordinary satisfaction that we congratulate Mr. Bishop on what will unquestionably prove a great success. We only hope it will result in making him a millionaire provided when his pockets are stuffed he will not abandon his native heath.

Pleaded the Gambling Act.

In the case of Dufur vs. Donovan in Warren county a verdict was rendered Saturday morning in favor of Donovan. The history of the case is as follows: During the months of June and July, 1883, Donovan was buying and selling oil through Dufur as broker. He put up $3,000 margins and when that money was exhausted he asked Dufur to carry the oil a day or two until he could raise more money, which Dufur consented to do, but the oil was finally sold on a regular order from Donovan, leaving a balance due Dufur of $1,010.13, for which he asked Donovan to give a note to balance account due in two years. This Donovan refused to do and Dufur brought suit to recover the amount in court. Donovan made no defence whatever except to plead the gambling act, in which the jury sustained him.—Era.

Returned to his First Love.

Fifteen and twenty years ago there was no man in McKean county, who we more certainly depended upon to stand up for republican men and measures, than Ransom Larrabee, Esq., the veteran landlord of the town that bears his name, in Eldred township. For a few years past he has been following the false gods of democracy, but he tells us that the free-trade and shot gun policy of that party has thoroughly disgusted him, and he is once more a republican. He is tired of eating democratic husks and has returned to his father's house, under the shelter of which he proposes to remain the balance of his days.

BUSY BRADFORD.

The interior of Berry's building on the public square is about finished and will soon be ready for tenants.

The fire police recently presented the Smethport hose company with an elegant silver pitcher as a testimonial of their regards.

The dwellers on the flats are getting ready for their annual flooding out time. They expect a big flood this year but having been through the mill before know how to get ready for it.

Three foot-pads on Corydon street "held up" a late traveler one night last week but were badly left as to the size of his "pile," getting only a big copper cent and a jack knife. Thieves will find it poor picking here this winter.

The democrats claim that the election was lost through Wm. Davitt of the third ward who ran independent for councilman, and as he was very popular got a large vote and broke things all up. He was not elected himself, but succeeded in giving the election to two republican councilmen and in beating Brewer Button for mayor. The council will now stand nine republicans to six democrats.

Jule Andrews was one of the old councilmen who failed to be re-elected this time. Jule made a good councilman but the vote against him was brought on by his unfortunate connection with Engineer Keith.

Frank Fowler and J. H. Whitcomb of the third ward also failed to be re-elected to their seats in the councils, and H. S. Tucker of the second ward may also be included with them. It was a bad day for the old councilmen. The people had decided to try a new batch for the coming year. In contrast to this was the re-election of every one of the old school board, whose time had run out, by good majorities. They have the satisfaction of knowing that the people have endorsed their actions.

Election day was the scene of a good deal of excitement at the different polling places in the city and the ward politician was in his glory. The vote was quite large and no attention whatever was shown to party ties by the intelligent voter. The race for the mayoralty was exciting and remarkably close, P. M. Shannon, the republican nominee being elected over Brewer Button, democrat, by only 12 majority. Both men were well liked by those who knew them and either one would have made a good mayor. C. K. McCafferty the democratic nominee for city treasurer proved to be wonderfully popular and was elected over J. C. Fox by a majority of 236. McCafferty is a young married man not being over 22 years old, and will make a good treasurer. For Controller J. T. Bishop was chosen by a majority of 71. McLean, democrat, his opponent made a good run but was knocked out by Bishop's large majority in the fourth ward.

JUPITER.

Bradford, Feb. 20, 1885.

Blockley Almshouse Fire.

In West Philadelphia is located one of the largest Almshouses of the country. In its several quarters thousands of the indigent and insane of that city are made comfortable. In the department set apart for the insane there were confined on Thursday last 584 lunatics. That night a fire broke out which entirely destroyed that portion of the Almshouse, and the remains of not less than twenty of the poor creatures were found in the ruins. A dispatch from Philadelphia of Friday morning last says that "many of the patients wandered about the streets last night almost naked. They seemed to be unable to understand the situation, and in some cases begged their captors piteously not to throw them in the river. Others seemed to take it as a grand joke, and laughed gleefully when the subject of the fire was mentioned. One of them ran down South st., this morning with a manacle attached to his wrist and a few links of a chain dangling from it. He shrieked and laughed as he struck right and left among the frightened people. It was found necessary to knock him down before he could be secured. Another madman caused a panic in a street car, by rushing in half clad, with his face scorched and blackened. He sat cowering in a corner, and it was soon found that he was more frightened than those who had run away from him. The report that the streets were full of escaped maniacs caused much alarm in West Philadelphia, and strangers looked upon each other with much distrust.

The Columbia Valentine.

One of the handsomest and most unique and original ideas in chromo-lithography is the Columbia valentine, just issued by the Pope manufacturing company, of Boston, Mass. The design, which is in twelve colors and mounted upon a panel, is a genuine work of art. The picture, from a painting by Copeland, of Boston, is artistically divided into three scenic sections. The first, a view of early sunrise, with fine atmospheric effect, represents the wheelman's morning ride, the centre scene, appropriately framed by the tire of an expert bicycle, is a strikingly beautiful view of picturesque country, a lady riding upon a tricycle accompanied by a mounted bicyclist, crossing a rustic bridge in the foreground, the last scene is a wheel by moonlight, the bright rays of the hub-lights cutting the semi-darkness. Upon the back of the panel is a poem descriptive of the picture.

It Made a Difference.

"So you think your meter doesn't register properly?"

"I am sure it does not, sir."

"Well, we are so busy now we can't attend to it. We will send a man up about the middle of next month."

"I wish you would. I am sure it does not register more than half the gas I burn."

"Eh! Just wait a minute. I'll send a man right up with you now to test it!"—Chicago News.

Fire at Wellsboro.

The Coles' house, the Methodist church, and an elegant residence owned by Mr. William C. Kress in Wellsboro, were all destroyed by fire on Monday morning last. The hotel was partially insured and the church was insured for $10,000, which will cover its loss. The fire was thought to be the work of incendiaries.

A Chance for Capital.

A McKean county bond is better than a government bond—the interest is more and as sure, and no premium is charged. If any of our readers have any money to invest there can be no safer or better investment than in these bonds, if they can be got. We understand that the county commissioners are now ready to place $25,000 of McKean county poor district bonds at 5 per cent. interest, running from two to eleven years, interest payable semi annually. These bonds will no doubt be readily snapped up, and if any of our own people have the money to invest they should not let this opportunity pass.

CATCHINGS FROM CLERMONT.

Mrs. J. D. Townsend and son Henry returned on Saturday night last from a two weeks' visit among relatives in Emporium and Lock Haven.

Dr. D. G. Brown and D. B. McCoy, of Smethport, were in town a few minutes on Tuesday night, the Dr. visiting Mrs. John H. Kane who has been quite sick for some time past.

The Odd Fellows are making preparations for a social gathering at Brower's Hall on Friday evening. It is purely a lodge affair, and no guests are expected outside of the members of the order and their families.

The Clermont and Instanter railroad was blockaded with snow on Monday and Tuesday last and in consequence there was no work in the mines. This was the first time this winter that the snow has made any trouble on the road.

The miners here have organized a beneficial society which now boasts sixty four members. The object is to care for sick members in the way of an allowance of $5 per week when sick. The dues are 50 cents per month—or more if occasion demands it. The Swedes have also organized a similar body with a membership of fifty-six. The organization of such societies is certainly laudable.

Chas. Greenleaf, Jr., of Boston, Mass., and who has been in North and South Carolina, Tennessee, Arkansas and other southern states since last fall looking up lumber interests, has returned north and was in town over Sunday. Charley gives a very graphic description of people, manners and customs among the southerners. He left for Boston on Monday but will return in a few days to ship a large quantity of cherry lumber from here.

Town meeting passed off very quietly. The only contest was over supervisor and constable. However, the regular caucus ticket was elected with the exception of constable. The following is the ticket elected:

Justices of the Peace—Robt. Dick, C. H. Beckwith. Charlie will make a very dignified 'Squire.
Assessor—J. C. Sonbergh.

Reduced Rates to the Inauguration via the Pennsylvania Railroad.

The inauguration of President-elect Cleveland on the 4th of March next promises to be a noteworthy event in the history of Washington. The citizens of the capital are working energetically and systematically to make the occasion a great success. In anticipation of an enormous throng of people, every effort is being put forth to provide accommodations for all who may come. Besides the regular hotels and boarding houses, with which the city is well equipped, numbers of private families have agreed to entertain visitors and sleeping accommodations are being improvised in halls and such other buildings as are suitable. There will doubtless be ample accommodations for all but those who desire to secure their lodgings in advance can do so by applying to Colonel L. P. Wright, Chairman of Committee on Public Comfort. Preparations for all the ceremonies are in the hands of competent committees, and every measure calculated to promote the comfort and pleasure of visitors will be carefully looked after.

For the benefit of the thousands of people who will be drawn from points along its lines, the Pennsylvania Railroad will sell excursion tickets to Washington from all stations on its system at greatly reduced rates. Its facilities for transporting passengers will be increased by the addition of special trains, which, with those regularly in service, will prove sufficient for all the demands of travel. The Baltimore and Potomac Station, Washington, into which all the trains of the Pennsylvania system run, is situated on Pennsylvania Avenue, in full view of the Capitol, on the line of march of the inaugural procession, and is easy of access to all the principal hotels and public buildings, and to any portion of the city by horse cars, bus, or carriage. The station is large, the facilities for handling incoming and outgoing trains and their contents are ample. Application should be made to local ticket agents of the Pennsylvania Railroad and its branches for full and detailed information as to tickets and rates.

The Philadelphia Press.

The Philadelphia Weekly Press promises to outrival the magazines, in their own field, besides giving all the news, helping the women, and furnishing valuable hints to the farmers at the same time. It has levied tribute upon the brains of the greatest of living statesmen scholars, and men of letters, and each week during the year it will publish three or four of these special articles, which will make the best of good reading until the next paper comes. Already have been printed articles by Admiral Porter, Mark Twain, Gen. Stone, Archibald Forbes, Robert Buchanan, Lieutenant Greely, Gen. C. C. Long, Thomas A. Edison, Prof. Proctor and others. These will be followed by contributions from Gladstone, General Grant, and Mr. Blaine, poems by Oliver Wendell Holmes and Whittier, and stories by Wilkie Collins, Bret Harte, Ouida, Miss Braddon, and others. In short, the foremost men in statecraft, in art, science and literature, will make the Weekly Press, during the year 1885, a storehouse of story, song, discoveries and useful thought.

In addition Mr. Robert P. Porter, formerly a member of the tariff commission, and now of the editorial staff of the Press, has already started to Europe, whence he will write a series of popular letters to that paper, presenting the economic condition of the European nations, showing the comparative cost of production, and the conditions of life of the European laborer in the shop, the mill, and on the farm. These letters will be of the highest value to every producer and workingman.

Judge Wilson Home.

We are glad Judge Wilson is not proof against home-sickness. On Friday last the judge slipped into Wellsboro as quietly and suddenly as he slipped out a little more than three months ago. Of course he went to the court house at once. The judge was a great hand to hang around the court house before he went west, and the habit seems still strong with him. Everyone seemed to know he was there; lawyers and officers would come up the aisle, and the enlargment of their facial orifices was wonderful. If smiles are an indication of an honest welcome the judge must have felt that his old associates and friends were bound to let him know they were glad to see him, and the roars of laughter that woke the sleeping echoes and shook the dust from the window shades was proof that his three months western experience had not dulled his intellect nor deadened his humor. Judge Wilson speaks in the highest terms of New Mexico, its people and professional men. He says he has held court almost constantly for three months—it seems to agree with him, for he is looking exceedingly well. He will return this week.—Wellsboro Advocate.

CONSTIPATION!

There is no medium through which disease so often attacks the system as by Constipation, and there is no other ill flesh is heir to more apt to be neglected, from the fact material inconvenience may not be immediately felt from irregular action of the bowels. When there is not regular action the retention of decayed and effete matter, with its poisonous gases, soon poisons the whole system by being absorbed into it, causing piles, fistula, headache, impure blood and many other serious affections. BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS will immediately relieve, and one bottle positively cure or relieve any case of Constipation.

"Was troubled for a year with torpid Liver and Indigestion, and after trying everything imaginable used BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS. The first bottle revived me and the second cured me entirely."—J. S. Williamson, Rochester N. Y.

IT LEADS ALL.

No other blood-purifying medicine is made, or has ever been prepared, which so completely meets the wants of physicians and the general public as

Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

It leads the list as a truly scientific preparation for all blood diseases. If there is a lurking taint of Scrofula about you, SCROFULA AYER'S SARSAPARILLA will dislodge it and expel it from your system. For constitutional or scrofulous Catarrh, CATARRH AYER'S SARSAPARILLA is the true remedy. It has cured numberless cases. It will stop the nauseous catarrhal discharges, and remove the sickening odor of the breath, which are indications of scrofulous origin.

"Hutto, Tex., Sept. 28, 1882.

ULCEROUS SORES "At the age of two years one of my children was terribly afflicted with ulcerous running sores on its face and neck. At the same time its eyes were swollen, much inflamed, and very sore. SORE EYES Physicians told us that a powerful alterative medicine must be employed. They united in recommending AYER'S SARSAPARILLA. A few doses produced a perceptible improvement, which, by an adherence to your directions, was continued to a complete and permanent cure. No evidence has since appeared of the existence of any scrofulous tendencies; and no treatment of any disorder was ever attended by more prompt or effectual results.

Yours truly, B. F. JOHNSON."

D. Langell's Asthma and Catarrh Remedy.

Having struggled 20 years between life and death with ASTHMA or PHTHISIC, treated by eminent physicians, and receiving no benefit, I was compelled during the last 5 years of my illness to sit on my chair day and night gasping for breath; my sufferings were beyond description. In despair I experimented on myself by compounding roots and herbs and inhaling the medicine thus obtained. I fortunately discovered this WONDERFUL CURE for ASTHMA and CATARRH, warranted to relieve the most stubborn case of ASTHMA IN FIVE MINUTES, so that the patient can lie down to rest and sleep comfortably. Any person not fully satisfied after using one-third of a box can return the remainder to the proprietor and the money will be refunded, or send me your address for a trial package FREE OF CHARGE. Mrs. W. T. Brown, Monroe, Ohio, writes: "I suffered with Asthma 9 years. Your Great Remedy completely cured me. I wish all afflicted with Asthma and Catarrh to send for it. Publish this for the benefit of the afflicted." Should your druggist not keep the remedy I can send it by mail on receipt of price $1 00. For sale by all druggists.
